

Engineering Coaching Services

1

Assist in developing technical leaders: corporate support

Present technical leadership attributes and illustrate with my own experiences
Coach employees on their conference technical papers and presentations
Develop an in-house technical leader discussion forum
Group coaching for engineers pursuing technical career paths

Individual Coaching

Guide individuals on their career progression in technical leadership roles and the competencies needed to be successful. Anne provides an initial free half-hour consult to determine fit and appropriate package.

Premier Package: Designed for engineers with 5+ years' experience who want to chart their engineering career with deliberate actions focused on one area of development at a time. Four times a month 1-hour meetings with two brief email responses per month.

Support Package: Designed for engineers with 15+ years' experience who want a sounding board as they chart their course through a professional challenge. Twice a month 1-hour meeting.

One-time support: Designed for engineers at all levels of experiences who want a 1-hour consult on a specific issue.

Anne limits her coaching time to 4 clients. This guarantees that her energy stays focused on them.

Training for Professional Development

As a senior staff engineer at Intel Anne provided both technical and professional development training. The Engineers' Daughter LLC provides Anne's expertise in technical communication and technical career development to engineers and engineering companies interested in developing these skills.

Complete training offerings can be found at <https://annemeixner.com/training-descriptions/#anchor>

To receive notifications of upcoming training, sign up here.

Mastermind group for external technical papers

For graduates of Getting to Present training, continued support in a group environment as they work towards presenting at a technical conference. As feedback on abstracts, paper drafts and presentations lie at the foundation of Getting to Present, a mastermind group provides an environment. Anne facilitates this group and provides additional training to facilitate the progress.

2

Membership site: Traveling the Technical Trail

Articles on topics germane to engineers on the technical path are published about twice a month. Access to handouts which support technical development. Regular calls to discuss articles and members' interests related to technical career development.

Basic Free and Premium Paid subscription levels available: read here for details.